DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. With regard to the applicants' argument that "APPARENT FAILURE TO FOLLOW THE MPEP". The examiner also notes that it is his duty to perform update search before allowance, and that the examiner never considers such a reversal as a challenge to make a new search to uncover other and better references.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

3. Claim 37 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Regarding to claim 37, which is a method claim, and that the claim does not fall within one of the four statutory categories of inventions. Supreme Court precedent and recent Federal Circuit decisions indicate a statutory "process" under 35 U.S.C. 101 must (1) be tied to another statutory category (such as a particular apparatus), or (2) transform underlying subject matter (such as an article or material) to a different state or thing. While the instant claim(s) recite a series of steps or acts to be performed, it is considered that none of the steps in the claims positively recites the other statutory class (the thing or product) to which it is tied, for example, by identifying the apparatus that accomplishes the method steps, In re Bilski, 88 USPQ2d 1385 (Fed. Cir. 2008).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Art Unit: 2621

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claim 1, 27 and 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Wilcox et al.

Wilcox et al discloses an automatic video segmentation using hidden markov model comprising the same image retrieval information storing apparatus for storing frame feature values in association with a plurality of frames of image data, comprising: a calculating unit for calculating statistics of motion vector information related to said image data (col. 4, ln. 7-23 and col. 6, ln. 3-20); a frame feature value generating unit for generating a frame feature value which is numerical information representing quantity of a feature contained in a frame of said image data using the calculated statistics (figure 10, average of motion vectors and/or the variance of the motion vectors, col. 5, ln. 26-35); and a frame feature value storing unit for storing said frame feature value in correlating form with the frame of said image data, the frame feature value storing unit being connected to said frame feature value generating unit (figure 10, el. S210-S220-S280, fig. 8, el.206, 208, 211) as specified in claims 1 and 37; and that the image apparatus further comprising: a coding information reading unit for reading motion vector information from said image data which is coded ; and said frame feature value generating unit generates said frame feature value based on said motion vector information (col. 6, ln. 2-22 and fig. 8, el. 211-212-206-205) as specified in claim 27.

Allowable Subject Matter
